
Which do you prefer?

Posted by shay - 2007/10/25 00:26

limit or no limit?

Myself, I have only played no limit, so I guess I prefer it. I am still a newbie at it all, and no limit is the way my grandmother taught me. lol. Just wondering what everyone else prefers. :)

=====

Re:Which do you prefer?

Posted by Whalewager - 2007/10/31 15:44

I like to go back and forth between the two, and also play some good ol' five-card draw. Not into razz and Omaha though.

I have found that switching back and forth keeps your skills sharp and also breaks the monotony

=====

Re:Which do you prefer?

Posted by simice - 2007/11/01 06:55

I too try to play both limit and no-limit games. I find that I think more about pot-odds and implied-odds when playing limit holdem and I tend to play more draws. Playing no-limit forces me to be more disciplined.

=====

Re:Which do you prefer?

Posted by shay - 2007/11/13 22:58

What is razz, 5-card, and omaha? Did I mention I'm a newbie? lol. I have never heard of any of those, well, except for 5-card. I've heard it on TV and stuff, but I don't know what it means.

=====

Re:Which do you prefer?

Posted by Explizite - 2007/12/12 19:35

I prefer limit. And the reason is really simple - it limits me from doing stupid things. I think everyone has to have a sort of limit above him.

=====

Re:Which do you prefer?

Posted by tater03 - 2007/12/13 08:51

I would have to agree with the poster right above me. I generally prefer to play limit for the same reasons. I just feel more comfortable being fairly new at the game.

=====