
Any tips on becoming a better player?

Posted by Whalewager - 2007/10/20 15:39

I will add one at a time, and maybe we can make of good list of DO's and DONT's to becoming a better No Limit Hold 'em Player

my #1 tip:

NEVER play when you are tired or under the influence of alcohol or medication

:)

=====

Re:Any tips on becoming a better player?

Posted by shay - 2007/11/15 18:02

Don't play after you have already won a bunch of money, bc then you'll lose it all. lol.

=====

Re:Any tips on becoming a better player?

Posted by tater03 - 2007/11/30 19:26

I would have to say don't over bet. Know when to play conservetly and when to walk away.

=====

Re:Any tips on becoming a better player?

Posted by Slinky - 2007/12/04 23:44

I am too timid to play no limit holdem. I like to play for awhile, and I'm afraid I'd bust out pretty fast at no limit.

=====

Re:Any tips on becoming a better player?

Posted by Explizite - 2007/12/12 19:31

Try to play with more experienced players than you are. Pay attention to their hands and to their moves. It will really help you. And of course do not bet more than you can afford.

=====

Re:Any tips on becoming a better player?

Posted by DanAngel - 2008/09/12 08:38

One thing I've found with No Limit, is play with people who have a similar understanding and value of money that you do. That way they're true game will shine through. If you're all playing for peanuts, then you'll never learn, throw in something worth playing for, then the game will change. Play over your head though, and chances are the players playing will be better than you.

=====