

---

When Do You Raise on the Blinds

Posted by tater03 - 2007/12/09 14:23

---

So do any of you tend to raise on the blinds and if so why or why not and when is the best time to do that. I mean what hand do you feel you need to have to do this? thanks

=====

Re:When Do You Raise on the Blinds

Posted by Explizite - 2007/12/12 19:26

---

I don't usually raise on blinds. Certainly you can do that to put more pressure on your opponents, but it doesn't really make sense.

=====

Re:When Do You Raise on the Blinds

Posted by tater03 - 2007/12/13 08:49

---

Thank you, that is exactly what my husband told me also. Still learning some of the basics. Thanks again.

=====

Re:When Do You Raise on the Blinds

Posted by Slinky - 2007/12/13 22:01

---

If you are either the big blind or the small blind and you have 1 of the top 10 starting hands, you must at least raise in this position. Do not let other players limp in with marginal hands.

=====

Re:When Do You Raise on the Blinds

Posted by tater03 - 2007/12/16 14:37

---

Thank you for the tip. I will definently remember this one. There seems so much that I really need to still learn.

=====

Re:When Do You Raise on the Blinds

Posted by ninikins - 2008/01/06 09:47

---

I love these tips, I never really knew whether to raise or not.

=====

Re:When Do You Raise on the Blinds

Posted by angel_dust - 2008/01/15 20:07

---

hehe i love all the tips too i still learning the basics but i like to read so :P

=====

Re:When Do You Raise on the Blinds

Posted by angel_dust - 2008/01/20 13:06

---

i finally understand a liitle bit more i finally know what raising is, and if i play for fun i do it easely

---

=====

Re:When Do You Raise on the Blinds

Posted by 73hunter92 - 2008/01/22 12:24

---

I usually don't raise on blinds either but, if there is an unusual amount of players calling and I have a hand that has potential I will raise at least double the blind and in some occasions even more. Like slinky said I will usually only do this if I have one of the blinds. Also depending on how the cards are treating me if I catch a high pair in the hole I will go all in and try to run everyone out. Sometimes it works and sometimes it doesn't but then again that's why they call it gambling.

=====