i used to use the "gift 2 go" cards from Walgreens but they stopped taking them at Pokerstars

Does anybody know of any other cards they take now? I see where they are now offering echecks, but I don't like linking gambling to my bank account

A follow up on echecks, one of my buddies at another forum was thinking about going this route at Pokerstars, but was informed they not only needed his bank account info, but also asked him for his Social Security number

NO THANKS was his reply :cheer:

I wouldn't be giving my SS# either! In fact, I probably will NEVER play with REAL money online, period! I think I'll stick to trying real money in person.
